SUBJECT: “Ethics – Global Perspective”

This presentation on ethics will address important ethical issues in general business and the energy business from a global perspective. Examples and studies will be cited, and interactive discussion on specific situations will be encouraged.

We will have certificates of attendance at the meeting for those who register via the internet. Those who register by telephone or at the door will need to provide a mailing address or business card so that we can mail you an attendance certificate.

SPEAKER: Cheryl Collarini, Chairman, Collarini Energy Staffing

Cheryl Collarini possesses a vast industry knowledge and experience that adds tremendous insight to the ethics discussion. She began her career with Mobil Oil as a civil engineer, and from there progressed into various assignments including operations, project development, and reservoir engineering. In 1985, she formed Collarini Engineering to conduct independent reserve appraisals and field studies. She accepted a partnership in 2003 with Explore Enterprises LLC serving as Vice President of Engineering. Following the successful sale of Explore's assets in 2008, she started Etroa Resources. After leaving Etroa, she became the owner of DGC Energy and Chairman of Collarini Energy Staffing and Collarini Career Management. She holds a bachelor's degree in Civil Engineering from M.I.T. and an MBA from the University of New Orleans.
